Re: Intel Significant Permit Revision

To Whom It May Concern,

Intel Corporation announces its intent to apply to the New Mexico Environment Department for a revision to the air quality permit for its Rio Rancho semiconductor processing facility, Air Quality Permit #0325-M9-R24. The expected date of application submittal to the Air Quality Bureau is July 16, 2010. This notice is a requirement of the New Mexico air quality regulations.

The Intel Rio Rancho facility is located at 4100 Sara Road, Rio Rancho, NM 87124 at the southeast corner of the intersection of Sara Road SE and Rio Rancho Blvd, Rio Rancho, NM in Sandoval County.

The proposed modification consists of the installation of five (5) additional thermal oxidizers. A thermal oxidizer is an air pollution control device that removes VOCs from the exhaust by oxidation which decomposes the VOCs at a high temperature. The purpose of this revision is to have complete emissions control redundancy for the VOC exhaust system from the manufacturing operation. The additional units will have the same operating parameters, including removal efficiency, operating temperature and combustion emissions, as the existing thermal oxidizers. The proposed revision will include the addition of the new units to Table 1, Table CS and Attachment A of the permit. In addition, Intel is submitting ambient air quality modeling to demonstrate that emissions from the site after the modification will not cause or contribute to an exceedance of ambient air quality standards. No change in annual allowable emission rates are proposed for this permit revision.

The estimated maximum quantities of any regulated air contaminants after the modification will be:

Plant Site Emissions – 12 month rolling total tons per year
NOx	CO	VOC	Total Suspended Particulates (TSP)	HAPs
95.7	94.7	96.5	14.2(RTO's only)	24 (total HAPs)

The standard operating schedule of the plant is 24 hours per day, 7 days per week, and 52 weeks per year. The maximum operating schedule is 24 hours per day, 7 days per week, and 52 weeks per year.

The owner and/or operator of the Facility is:
Intel Corporation
Mail Stop RR5-491
4100 Sara Rd.
Rio Rancho, NM 87124-1025

If you have any questions or comments about construction or operation of above facility, and want your comments to be made part of the permit review process, you must submit your comments in writing to the:

Program Manager, Permit Section
New Mexico Environment Department
Air Quality Bureau
1301 Siler Road, Building B
Santa Fe, New Mexico 87507-3113
Phone: (505) 476-4300

Other comments and questions may be submitted verbally.

Please refer to the company name and site name, as used in this notice or send a copy of this notice along with your comments, since the Department may not have received the permit application at the time of this notice. Once the Department has performed a preliminary review of the application and its air quality impacts, the Departments notice will be published in the legal section of a newspaper circulated near the facility location.

Sincerely,

Frank Gallegos

NOTICE OF AIR QUALITY PERMIT APPLICATION

Intel Corporation announces its intent to apply to the New Mexico Environment Department for a revision to the air quality permit for its Rio Rancho semiconductor processing facility, Air Quality Permit #0325-M9-R24. The expected date of application submittal to the Air Quality Bureau is July 16, 2010. This notice is a requirement of the New Mexico air quality regulations.

The Intel Rio Rancho facility, is located at 4100 Sara Road, Rio Rancho, NM 87124 at the southeast corner of the intersection of Sara Road SE and Rio Rancho Blvd, Rio Rancho, NM in Sandoval County

The proposed modification consists of the installation of five (5) additional thermal oxidizers. A thermal oxidizer is an air pollution control device that removes VOCs from the exhaust by oxidation which decomposes the VOCs at a high temperature. The purpose of this revision is to have complete emissions control redundancy for the VOC exhaust system from the manufacturing operation. The additional units will have the same operating parameters, including removal efficiency, operating temperature and combustion emissions, as the existing thermal oxidizers. The proposed revision will include the addition of the new units to Table 1, Table C5 and Attachment A of the permit. In addition, Intel is submitting ambient air quality modeling to demonstrate that emissions from the site after the modification will not cause or contribute to an exceedance of ambient air quality standards. No change in annual allowable emission rates are proposed for this permit revision.

The estimated maximum quantities of any regulated air contaminants after the modification will be:

Plant Site Emissions - 12 month rolling total tons per year Emisiones de Sitio de Planta - 12 mes toneladas acumulativas totales por año
NOx	CO	VOC	Total Suspended Particulates (TSP) Material Particulado Suspendido Total	HAPs
95.7	94.7	96.5	14.2(PM10's only)	24 (total HAPs)

The standard operating schedule of the plant is 24 hours per day, 7 days per week, and 52 weeks per year. The maximum operating schedule is 24 hours per day, 7 days per week, and 52 weeks per year.

The owner and/or operator of the Facility is:
Intel Corporation
Mail Stop RR5 491
4100 Sara Rd.
Rio Rancho, NM 87124-1025

If you have any questions or comments about construction or operation of above facility, and want your comments to be made part of the permit review process, you must submit your comments in writing to the:

Program Manager, Permit Section
New Mexico Environment Department, Air Quality Bureau
1301 Siler Road, Building B
Santa Fe, New Mexico 87507-3113
Phone: (505) 476-4300

Other comments and questions may be submitted verbally.

Please refer to the company name and site name, as used in this notice or send a copy of this notice along with your comments, since the Department may not have received the permit application at the time of this notice. Once the Department has performed a preliminary review of the application and its air quality impacts, the Departments notice will be published in the legal section of a newspaper circulated near the facility location.

Intel S.A. tiene la intención de presentarse al New Mexico Environment Department (Departamento del Medio Ambiente de Nuevo México) (NMED) una revisión del Permiso De Calidad De Aire No. 0325-M9-R24 para su instalación de procesamiento de semiconductores. La fecha prevista de presentación de la solicitud a la Oficina de Calidad de Aire es 16 de julio de 2010. Este aviso es un requisito de los reglamentos de la Oficina de Calidad de Aire de New Mexico (Air Quality Bureau).

La instalación de Intel Rio Rancho se encuentra a 4100 Sara Road, Rio Rancho, NM 87124 en la esquina sureste de la intersección de Sara Road SE y Rio Rancho Blvd, Rio Rancho, NM, en el condado de Sandoval.

Un oxidante térmico es un aparato que elimina compuestos orgánicos volátiles (VOCs) de los gases de escape por oxidación que descomponen los VOCs a alta temperatura. El propósito de esta revisión es tener redundancia completa de control de emisiones de VOCs para el sistema de escape de la operación de fabricación. Las unidades adicionales tendrán los mismos parámetros de operación, incluyendo la eficiencia de eliminación, la temperatura de funcionamiento y las emisiones de combustión, como los oxidantes térmicos existentes. La revisión propuesta incluirá la adición de las unidades nuevas en la Tabla 1, Tabla C5 y el Anexo A del Permiso. Además, Intel presenta modelos de la calidad de aire para demostrar que las emisiones del sitio después de la modificación no causarán ni contribuirán a un exceso de las normas de calidad del aire ambiente. This notice is a requirement of the New Mexico air quality regulations. The proposed modification consists of the installation of five (5) additional thermal oxidizers. A thermal oxidizer is an air pollution control device that removes Volatile Organic Compounds, or VOCs, from the exhaust by oxidation which decomposes the VOCs at a high temperature. The purpose of this revision is to have complete emissions control redundancy for the VOC exhaust system from the manufacturing operation. The additional units will have the same operating parameters, including removal efficiency, operating temperature and combustion emissions, as the existing thermal oxidizers. In addition, Intel is submitting ambient air quality modeling to demonstrate that emissions from the site after the modification will not cause or contribute to an exceedance of ambient air quality standards. NOTICE OF AIR QUALITY PERMIT APPLICATION

Intel Corporation announces its intent to apply to the New Mexico Environment Department for a revision to the air quality permit for its Rio Rancho semiconductor processing facility, Air Quality Permit #0325-M9-R24. The expected date of application submittal to the Air Quality Bureau is July 16, 2010. This notice is a requirement of the New Mexico air quality regulations.

The Intel Rio Rancho facility, is located at 4100 Sara Road, Rio Rancho, NM 87124 at the southeast corner of the intersection of Sara Road SE and Rio Rancho Blvd, Rio Rancho, NM in Sandoval County.

The proposed modification consists of the installation of five (5) additional thermal oxidizers. A thermal oxidizer is an air pollution control device that removes VOCs from the exhaust by oxidation which decomposes the VOCs at a high temperature. The purpose of this revision is to have complete emissions control redundancy for the VOC exhaust system from the manufacturing operation. The additional units will have the same operating parameters, including removal efficiency, operating temperature and combustion emissions, as the existing thermal oxidizers. The proposed revision will include the addition of the new units to Table 1, Table CS and Attachment A of the permit. In addition, Intel is submitting ambient air quality modeling to demonstrate that emissions from the site after the modification will not cause or contribute to an exceedance of ambient air quality standards. No change in annual allowable emission rates are proposed for this permit revision.

The estimated maximum quantities of any regulated air contaminants after the modification will be:

Plant Site Emissions - 12 month rolling total tons per year Emisiones de Sitio de Planta - 12 mes toneladas acumulativas totales por año
NOx	CO	VOC	Total Suspended Particulates (TSP) Material Particulado Suspendido Total	HAPs
95.7	94.7	96.5	14.2(RTO's only)	24 (total HAPs)

The standard operating schedule of the plant is 24 hours per day, 7 days per week, and 52 weeks per year. The maximum operating schedule is 24 hours per day, 7 days per week, and 52 weeks per year.

The owner and/or operator of the Facility is:
Intel Corporation
Mail Stop RR5-491
4100 Sara Rd.
Rio Rancho, NM 87124-1025

If you have any questions or comments about construction or operation of above facility, and want your comments to be made part of the permit review process , you must submit your comments in writing to the:

Program Manager, Permit Section
New Mexico Environment Department, Air Quality Bureau
1301 Siler Road, Building B
Santa Fe, New Mexico 87507-3113
Phone: (505) 476-4300

Other comments and questions may be submitted verbally.

Please refer to the company name and site name, as used in this notice or send a copy of this notice along with your comments, since the Department may not have received the permit application at the time of this notice. Once the Department has performed a preliminary review of the application and its air quality impacts, the Departments notice will be published in the legal section of a newspaper circulated near the facility location.

AVISO AL PUBLICO

Intel S.A. tiene la intención de presentarse al New Mexico Environment Department (Departamento del Medio Ambiente de Nuevo México) (NMED) una revisión del Permiso De Calidad De Aire No. 0325-M9-R24 para su instalacion de procesamiento de semiconductores. La fecha prevista de presentación de la solicitud a la Oficina de Calidad de Aire es 16 de julio de 2010. Este aviso es un requisito de los reglamentos de la Oficina de Calidad de Aire de New Mexico (Air Quality Bureau).

La instalación de Intel Rio Rancho se encuentra a 4100 Sara Road, Rio Rancho, NM 87124 en la esquina sureste de la intersección de Sara Road SE y Rio Rancho Blvd, Rio Rancho, NM, en el condado de Sandoval.

La propuesta revisión consiste en la instalación de cinco (5) oxidantes térmicos adicionales. Un oxidante térmico es un aparato que elimina compuestos orgánicos volátiles (VOCs) de los gases de escape por oxidación que descomponen los VOCs a alta temperatura. El propósito de esta revisión es tener redundancia completa de control de emisiones de VOCs para el sistema de escape de la operación de fabricación. Las unidades adicionales tendrán los mismos parámetros de operación, incluyendo la eficiencia de eliminación, la temperatura de funcionamiento y las emisiones de combustión, como los oxidantes térmicos existentes. La revisión própuesta incluirá la adición de las unidades nuevas en la Tabla 1, Tabla CS y el Anexo A del Permiso. Además, Intel presenta modelos de la calidad de aire para demostrar que las emisiones del sitio después de la modificación no causarán ni contribuirán a un exceso de las normas de calidad del aire ambiente. No hay cambios en las tasas anuales de emisión permitidos que son propuestos para esta revisión del permiso.

Las cantidades máximas estimadas de contaminantes del aire regulados después de la modificación están puestos en la lista en la tabla encima.

El horario de operaciones estándar y máximo de la instalación permanecerá 24 horas por día, 7 días por semana y 52 semanas por año.

El propietario y / u operador de las instalaciones:
Intel Corporation
Mail Stop RR5-491
4100 Sara Rd.
Rio Rancho, NM 87124-1025

Si usted tiene alguna pregunta o comentario acerca de la construcción o la explotación de las instalaciones anteriores, y desea que sus comentarios sean a former parte del proceso del examen del permiso, deberá presentar sus comentarios por escrito a:

Otros comentarios y preguntas pueden ser presentadas verbalmente.

Favor de refirirse al nombre de la empresa y del sitio, tal como se utiliza en este aviso o envie una copia de este aviso junto a sus comentarios, ya que el Departamento no puede haber recibido a solicitud del permiso en el momento de esta notificación.
