NEW MEXICO ENVIRONMENT DEPARTMENT LIFTS
PRECAUTIONARY BOIL WATER ADVISORY FOR RUIDOSO

New Mexico Environment Department Secretary David Martin is lifting a “precautionary boil water advisory” for Ruidoso, NM. NMED issued the advisory on February 9, 2011 after many water lines either froze or ruptured due to extreme weather conditions. Chlorine residuals and water pressure throughout the Ruidoso water system are now stable. Water samples collected have shown no bacteriological contamination in the water.
